

Criminal Record Checks

Choose the right type of criminal record check for your business and experience the Mintz Global Screening difference.

Types of Criminal Record Checks	Footprint	Results	The Benefits	Time Frame
National Criminal Record Check	Across Canada	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> No criminal record May have a criminal record* *(Does not provide detailed information related to criminal convictions)	Quickly determines if the applicant has a criminal record across Canada, all provinces combined.	24 hours
Self-Declaration	Across Canada	After a regular criminal record check has been completed, this search will allow the applicant to declare the convictions included in their criminal record. The RCMP will confirm if the statements are accurate and complete or if they are incomplete.	Provides details on an applicant's criminal history allowing clients to make decisions based on facts.	24 hours
Enhanced Criminal Record Check	Across Canada	In addition to a regular National criminal search, the Enhanced criminal record search looks for out-standing entries such as charges set before the courts, wanted person information, probation orders or prohibited person information contained within local (municipal) police indices.	This more comprehensive search is recommended for positions for which an advanced security clearance is required.	48 hours
Digital Fingerprinting	Across Canada	This is the only definitive way to know whether or not an applicant has a criminal record at the national level. If a record exists, it gives access to the details of the criminal record(s).	Provides definitive information on details of the criminal record(s).	If negative: within 10 days If positive: up to 120 days
Provincial Criminal Record Check	Province for which the check is performed	Indicates all offences for which the applicant has been convicted (in that province).	Provides all details of criminal convictions issued by the province within the province searched.	Varies by province: 2 to 15 days
International Criminal Record Check	Country for which the check is performed	Indicates whether or not an applicant has a criminal record and provides the details of the criminal record(s).	When an applicant has only been in Canada for a short period of time, this check can let you know their criminal background abroad.	Varies by country

*The National criminal record check is a search performed with the name and date of birth of a given applicant. If an individual with the same name and birth date as the applicant has a criminal record, it is possible that the result will indicate the applicant may have a record. The fingerprinting process is the definitive method to confirm whether your applicant has a record.
